(Ps 65)

Gospel Meditation

By Father John Muir

It's not uncommon to hear people complain that we Catholics often fail in communicating our faith. Fair enough. We can and should improve there. But it's interesting to notice that Jesus himself was implicitly accused by his disciples of a similar failure. This week in Matthew's gospel they are perplexed that he speaks to the crowds in ambiguous parables.

The Lord's riddles leave many people more confused than before. He responds by pointing out that his parables have an intentional dual purpose: to hide (for some) and to reveal (for others) his Gospel: "Because knowledge of the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven has been granted to you, but to them it has not been granted" (Matthew 13:11).

Is Jesus being unnecessarily difficult, obscurantist, or, worse, elitist?

No. We have to remember that all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge lie hidden in him (c.f., Col. 2:3). He is the word of God from heaven to be planted in the earth of our humanity to bear great fruit. However, like a lover delicately pursuing his beloved, we're dealing with a relationship, not new data. When we aren't willing to personally accept Jesus into our lives, the "info" of the Gospel will simply not make sense to us.

It'll seem bizarre, esoteric, or like incoherent religious-speak. But when we are willing to accept Jesus into our lives, everything else starts to make sense. When others don't understand the Church or the Lord, let's be patient. Love is patient.

Sometimes it has to hide before it is revealed.

Scripture Reflections

First Reading

The prophet Isaiah assured the Israelites who were exiled in Babylon that God's word is reliable and purposeful. How might you help friends or family trust more in God?

Second Reading

Paul sees creation itself sharing in the redemption and future glory that awaits all believers — "For creation awaits with eager expectation the revelation of the children of God." What do you imagine earth would look like filled with God's glory, absent any "corruption?"

Gospel

Over the next few Sundays, we will be hearing many parables from Jesus. Today's parable of the sower and the seeds speaks to how people react differently to the Good News of the kingdom of heaven. How would you describe your reaction to Jesus's parables of the kingdom?

Today millions of unborn children are being killed, but we say nothing." Consider the thought of becoming involved in this much-needed ministry. All it takes is prayer. ### Inspiration For the Week

We are all sowers in the field. Our time, our money, our attention: these finite resources are the seeds, and the choice is ours where we scatter them. Do we focus our efforts on soil that will bear fruit for the kingdom?

Grow your word, truth, identity,

you would have us produce.*

(Practicing) Catholic Recognize God in Your Ordinary Moments

By Colleen Jurkiewicz Dorman

Soil Conditions

I am a hopeless gardener. I never met a plant I couldn't swiftly kill with good intentions and poor understanding of soil conditions.

Because really, it's all about the soil conditions — at least, that's what Google tells me when I helplessly search phrases like "Why aren't any of my seeds sprouting? Please, I tried so hard." I can never seem to match the right type of soil offering the right type of drainage and texture with the right plant. I can't understand why it's not enough to bury the seed in whatever ground is available, sprinkle some water and ask it, very nicely, to grow.

This is also a quality that makes me a poor evangelist to people who do not share my beliefs. How many times have I encountered a friend or loved one who left the faith, and I tried to coax them back by hurling Catechism passages in their direction, offering advice they never asked for and are ill-equipped to understand? I sow these seeds of witness and bang my fists in frustration that they rot where I plant them, never realizing that it's all about the soil.

It is Christ, and Christ alone, who works within the heart. It is Christ who is the sower of the seed, not me. When I leave him out of the equation, when I fail to offer the Person and instead only offer the teaching, I can anticipate that any witness I have to offer will rot where it is planted just as sure as a tulip bulb in a bed of clay.

"...my word shall not return to me void, but shall do my will, achieving the end for which I sent it." — Isaiah 55:11

Holy men and women from the Americas

José Luis Sánchez del Río was born on March 28, 1913, in Sahuayo, Michoacán, Mexico. Nicknamed "Joselito", he grew up in a strong Catholic family who prayed the rosary frequently and attended church as often as they safely could during the unrest in Mexico at the time.

Going to church publicly in Sahuayo was dangerous for José and his family was the Cristero War which broke out in 1926.

During this time, the Mexican government began trying to secularize the nation, enforcing anti-clerical laws, and violently targeting churches and Christians, specifically Catholics. The government closed religious schools, exiled and executed priests, nuns, and other religious people, and seized church buildings and properties for their own use. In response to this violent disruption, Catholics across Mexico organized and took up arms against the government united under their war cry, "¡Viva Cristo Rey!" which translates to, "Long live Christ the King!" The fighting was most concentrated in the region of West Central Mexico where José and his family lived.

While still a child, José's two older brothers joined the war effort as Mexican Cisteros, or "Soldiers for Christ," fighting against the government. As he became a teenager, José greatly desired to follow in their footsteps and, when his mother refused, he refuted by begging her, "do not let me lose the opportunity to gain heaven so easily and so soon." He prayed for a chance to give his life for Jesus and to be able to defend his faith and his community. Eventually his parents relented and allowed him to join the military as a flag-bearer. During his short time in the militia, the other Cristeros nicknamed him Tarcisius, the name of an early Catholic saint who was put to death for protecting the Eucharist.

During a battle in 1928 he was captured by enemy forces. The general who was leading him and the other Cisteros into battle had fallen off his horse when the animal was killed by opposing forces. José gave his personal horse to the general so the general could continue leading the troops and eventually escape capture. Horseless and thus unable to outrun the enemy,

Shortly after his capture, the government soldiers jailed him and their other prisoners in a church they had confiscated — this make-shift prison happened to be the church of José's baptism. While imprisoned, he prayed the rosary daily and refused to renounce his faith, even though he was told he would be released if he simply repeated the phrase, "Death to Jesus Christ." Despite having to watch others tortured and killed in an attempt by his captors to break his resolve, José chose to yell encouraging words to those being put to death in front of him instead of choosing to fall into despair. He refused to back down under the severe pressure and remained resolute in his faith in and love of Jesus.

When nothing else worked to get him to renounce his faith, his captors tortured him. They sliced off the soles of his feet then made him walk on his mutilated bare feet to the cemetery where they planned to kill him. The entire time José sang hymns and refused to despair. They stabbed and cut him many times along the way with a machete. Before he was shot in the head by the military leaders holding him captive, he was heard yelling "Long live Christ the King! Long live Holy Mary of Guadalupe!" He was a month short of his 15th birthday when he was martyred. José Luis Sánchez del Río was canonized by Pope Francis on October 16, 2016.

Mt 13:1-23

The farmer is God. The seed is God's Word. That makes the soil your heart. If your heart is angry or stubborn, God's Word can't sink in. If your heart is shallow, God's Word can't take root. Instead, you will worry about getting power or riches. If your heart is discouraged by people who hate God, your faith will choke. If your heart is soft, God's Word will change your life, and it will show.
